

What latency the committer costs at a given throughput, and what the block size trades

